

The days and months ahead will be long and full of difficult choices.

Have you been told that your unborn child may not survive past birth?

Are doctors urging you to terminate your pregnancy because your child may have a poor quality of life?

Have you been presented with the miraculous option of an in-utero procedure?

Come talk with other parents who have faced similar situations.

CONFUSED?
OVERWHELMED?
ANGRY?
SAD?
ALONE?

We can provide you with counseling and support from families who have "been there." We know the confusion, pain and loneliness that you are feeling. Please let us offer a listening ear and a comforting shoulder.

We would like to be there for you.

Some Things to Consider

---

- What other tests can be done?
  - How do I get a second opinion?
  - Should I name my baby?
  - What kind of birth do I want?
  - What ceremonies would I like if my baby dies?
  - What will my baby look like?
  - Will my baby suffer?
  - How do I tell people?
  - How do I tell my children?
  - How is this going to affect my marriage?
  - Is adoption really an option?
  - How can I raise this child?
  - How do I avoid future regrets?
  - Where does my faith fit?
  - How will I get through this?

A Child of Promise is operated by parents who have been in your position before.

*Whatever
the circumstances, we would like to help.*

---

We suffered through the pain alone.
There were so many decisions to make and so much to think about. We hope that you would not suffer alone, but would receive encouragement on your journey.

*A Child of Promise (ACOP) began in the spring of 2002 as a ministry of the First Evangelical Free Church of St. Louis County.
ACOP was founded by Kim Endraske, whose son, Tommy, was born still in 1998, following an in-utero procedure to save his life. Since that time, God has worked powerfully to heal her wounds. He has given her a message of hope to share with other families whose child has been diagnosed with an adverse condition before birth.*

"For you created
my inmost being;
you knit me
together in my mother's womb."
Psalm 139:13
